Mrs. Brooks Is Made President Of Women's Club

Members Name New Officers at Meeting Wednesday Afternoon

Mrs. W. M. Brooks was elected president of the Women's Club Wednesday afternoon. Other officers elected were Mrs. Roy Arundell, first vice-president; Mrs. Brady Wolfe, second vice-president; Mrs. Hurum Reeve, third vice-president; Mrs. W. J. Neelands, recording secretary; Mrs. P. G. Briney, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Stone, federation secretary; Mrs. Edd Huddleston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sam Rappaport, auditor; Mrs. W. H. Gilbert, Mrs. Fred Hansen and Mrs. Mary Lewis, directors.

It was decided to have a cafeteria supper instead of the cooked food booth. The raising of the dues $2 a year was voted down.

Mrs. Ethel Hearst, first vice-president of Department of California, American Legion Auxiliary, the speaker of the afternoon, told many interesting things on the veteran welfare work. Mrs. Rice, hospitalization chairman, was introduced.

Mrs. Roy Arundell, who represented the Torrance Club at Sacramento, gave a report on the state convention.

As the program was under the chairman of co-operation with war veterans, Mrs. Mary Harder, the members of the American Legion Auxiliary were invited to be present at the meeting and at the luncheon that preceded it.

The luncheon tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, the gift of Mrs. G. W. Sapp, who also arranged them on the tables.

Safeway Stores Put Out Bonus

The initial quarterly distribution of bonuses to 450 partner-managers of the Safeway Stores in Southern California, under the recently adopted profit-sharing plan, which has attracted the interest of business leaders throughout the United States, was announced yesterday by President M. B. Skaggs.

Checks aggregating $80,000, representing 20 per cent of the profits of the Southern California Safeway Stores for the past three months, were distributed to the partner-managers under the new system of merchandising, have been mailed out.

Both executives and store managers have expressed themselves as keenly satisfied with the results of the first three-months experiment with the manager-partnership plan, which was declared to be the greatest advance thus far made in the field of chain grocery operation.

The plan was adopted by M. B. Skaggs several years ago and put into effect with most satisfactory results in the system of stores throughout the country. Shortly following the recent merger of the Skaggs-Safeway interests it was extended to include Southern California.

"Our new partner-manager plan of merchandising, instituted in the Southern California Safeway system January 1, has surpassed all expectations in the success attained," declared President M. B. Skaggs.

"The happy results of the initial experiment indicates that the 450 Safeway partner-managers in this year by $150,000 in bonuses. One outstanding fact in my mind, moreover, regarding this new plan is that it does not, nor will not, entail any reduction in salaries. The original salaries still go on as of old, and in many cases store managers have been given substantial salary increases, commensurate with their worth to the Safeway organization.

"Furthermore, not a single dollar of these quarterly bonuses goes to an official or executive of the Safeway Stores. Only store managers and district managers are included under the plan. Compared with store managers the district managers enjoy but a very small percentage of the bonuses.

"Now, to my mind, what good has thus far resulted from a manager-partnership plan of this nature?"

"Every Safeway partner-manager in Southern California has become conscious of his new obligations as a partner in this great organization and of the greater and more independent scope of his activities. He has become an individual merchant, upon whose business initiative, smart alertness and unwavering obedience to the wishes of all Safeway customers depends the future of our fast-expanding system of chain stores.

"The Safeway system of stores south of the Tehachapi is functioning better than ever, and a feeling of comradeship exists between officials and partner-managers which augurs well for the future. A quarterly bonus of this character means, may I add, that the 450 Safeway partner-managers throughout Southern California will have an additional purchasing power of $350,000 this year, apportioned among their respective communities."

Walteria Would Join Torrance

Episcopal Church Here Exceeds Its Mite Box Quota

Christ Church School, Episcopal, Torrance, received honorable mention at the rally held in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday afternoon, for exceeding their quota for the Lenten offering contained in their mite boxes.

Approximately 1600 people were present, including scholars and officers of the church schools of the diocese. Over $1000 was raised for the mission work of the Episcopal Church at this rally. Nine hundred and fifty dollars of this amount was contained in the mite boxes.

The Torrance school was represented by two auto loads, who carried a large American flag and a banner with the name of the town on it.

Reo Flying Cloud In Great Stunt

Never in recent years has there been an automobile "stunt" which caused such general comment and excited so much interest as the Reo Flying Cloud, according to reports reaching M. J. Fix, local Reo dealer.

The Reo traveled north from Los Angeles to Paso Robles, across to Bakersfield, over the Tehachapi to Mojave, thence to Palmdale and San Bernardino, down the Imperial Valley to El Centro, across the mountains to San Diego, and back to Los Angeles.

So unusual was the performance that there were a few people who were frankly skeptical as to its being possible to cover such a route in 20 hours and 55 minutes, and it has been the pleasure of officials of the company to show these people the original route map carried by the drivers on their trip.

This map contains the signatures of police officers in nine of the ten counties and the signature of Western Union officials of Los Angeles, the tenth county.

In Ventura a patrolman was detailed to check the car into the city, and in all other points except Los Angeles state or county police placed their signatures and affixed them to the map.

"The drivers of the car have come in for a great deal of interrogation as to how the Flying Cloud handles at "maximum" speed, and when they reply that nowhere on the trip was the Flying Cloud forced to greater than a comfortable touring speed there is a general chorus of "How did you do it?"

"We made our time on the desert where there was no traffic, and on the lonely stretches of road which were covered in the early morning hours," says Gene Hickman. "In traffic areas we observed all the rules of caution and at no time did we endanger ourselves or other vehicles on the highway. All boulevard stops, school zones, traffic signals, pedestrian crossings and other safety zones encountered were carefully observed, for we were working in conjunction with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the police departments and we knew that we could not ask their co-operation and then turn around and violate the rules of the road. It would have been impossible to make the run in 20 hours and 55 minutes without the wonderfully effective four-wheel brakes and flashing pickup of the Flying Cloud."

The former enabled us to make the necessary stops with the least possible waste of time, and the latter brought us right back to touring speed as quickly as possible. But on the other hand, if our sole aim had been to show speed we could have covered the distance in much less time. The good road system of Southern California was fully as important an item in our publicity objective as the ability of the car."
